Sam : Rika, what are you doing?
Rika : I'm practicing a speech in English for a contest. I want to improve my English, so I decided to take part in the speech contest on the last Saturday of this month.
Sam : You mean, the English speech contest for high school students on September 30?
Rika : Yes. I think the contest will be a good experience for me.
Sam : I think so, too. What are you going to talk about in your speech?
Rika : About my dream. I want to help children in the world. Many children in some countries don't know how to read and write. I want to do something for such children.
Sam : That's a wonderful dream.
Rika : Thank you. But I'm not sure that I can make a good speech at the contest. I always become nervous in front of many people. What should I do?
Sam : You don't need to make a perfect speech. You should relax and enjoy your speech. I always try to enjoy my performance as a member of the drama club. I've never been nervous.
Rika : You really enjoyed your performance at the school festival last month. You're brave in front of many students.
Sam : Thank you. I want to listen to your speech before the contest. Maybe I can give you some ideas to perform well in front of many people.
Rika : You're so kind. Ms. Sato, our English teacher, will help me practice the speech tomorrow, so how about on Thursday?
Sam : I'm sorry, but I practice the drama with the other members of the club on Mondays and Thursdays. Are you free this Friday?
Rika : Yes. I'll practice harder until then.
Sam : Is it OK if the other members of the club listen to your speech? Maybe that will be good practice for the speech contest.
Rika : Well, first, I want only you to listen to my speech.
Sam : I see.
